

They* Are Going to Kill Us All – Part I

(Climate Engineering Takes No Prisoners)

What are we talking about?

Climate engineering, also referred to as "geoengineering" and "solar radiation management", is the single most destructive activity ever launched by the human race. If it is allowed to continue, humans will go extinct by the end of this decade—along with, quite possibly, all life on Earth.

In a nutshell, radio frequency transmitter facilities like the one associated with the High-frequency Active Auroral Research Program (HAARP) are bombarding the ionosphere with massively powerful microwave transmissions, while jet aircraft are saturating the stratosphere and troposphere with massive quantities of sun-blocking and ice-nucleating chemical elements. These two activities combined allow a small group of nefarious actors to manipulate the weather and climate across the globe.

Timeline

As incredible as it may seem, these covert and illegal operations have been on-going for over seven decades, arguably constituting the most significant mass deception in history. Many sources attest to man's ability to control the weather, but one of the most instructive is the unclassified U.S. military document Weather as a Force Multiplier: Owning the Weather in 2025, accessible online at the time of writing.

Location

Operations have been most intensive at the northern and southern poles and wherever the Controllers want to bring entire populations to their knees. (These same populations never even realize that they are under attack.) Developing nations have borne the brunt of this malevolence for a very long time, but wealthier nations have not been spared, and in recent years, have been assaulted relentlessly.

It is impossible to engineer the climate over one part of the Earth and not affect the rest. The entire planet is being used—intentionally—as a giant physics lab. There is nowhere to run, nowhere to hide.

Who's involved?

All major powers are complicit and colluding in these Crimes Against Humanity and Nature. Those who own militaries and who control governments are the true architects, aided and abetted by a coterie of climate 'scientists' and engineers (who continue to pretend that geoengineering is just a "proposal"), private defense contractors, the media, and other anchors of the military-industrial complex. Military personnel fly the planes and drones used to conduct these clandestine activities.

Why is this happening?

"The greatest shortcoming of the human race is our inability to understand the exponential function."

- Albert Bartlett

Exponential growth has brought us to a very dark place. Collectively, we have chewed up, guzzled, belched, and spat out more than the planet can replace in any time frame that matters. In other words, we have long since exceeded Earth's carrying capacity.

Governments can no longer provide for their populations, and the Controllers know this: they know that we are about to hit the wall at full velocity, and they aim to be the last ones standing—if only to rule over the ashes of a toxic legacy.

A primary objective of these operations (which include engineered winter) is a last ditch effort to keep the masses from panicking by sowing doubt as to the true extent of the damage already done to the climate. These engineered cool-downs come at the cost of a greater overall warming, while simultaneously contaminating the entire web of life.

Actual state of the climate & biosphere

The ecological record:

Total biosphere collapse is imminent. We have paved the planet, cut down the forests, poisoned the rivers, and irradiated the magnetosphere and everything below. We have harvested game to the point of extinction. Glaciers are disappearing (see Chasing Ice, 2012) and methane craters are exploding (search "Siberian craters" online). Tree cover has been reduced by over 60% since the dawn of civilization. Plankton, insect, fish, and wildlife populations are crashing all around us.

An estimated 200-300 animal and plant species are going extinct per day—this is roughly 15,000 times the background rate, so, no, it isn't something that's happened before.

The atmospheric record:

"Is the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) lying?" They are lying to us, but not in the direction that many would like to believe. The situation we face is far more dire than even the most dire of reports from official sources. Temperatures are falsified, downplaying the risk. Sea ice data is skewed to such an extent that it can only be referred to as fraudulent, while the ozone layer has never been in worse shape—it is nearly depleted.

Earth's atmosphere is precisely calibrated, and it is only under these precise conditions that life can exist at all. We are burning 100 million barrels of hydrocarbons per day and the gaseous products of combustion are thickening the atmosphere.

One of the IPCC's most staggering lies is that the planet hasn't yet reached the apocalyptic "1.5 degrees" of warming, when in fact, an avalanche of data confirms that we have shot well past three degrees of warming. Worse, we have blown past at least 20 tipping points, with a cascade of irreversible consequences.

The oceans are heating at the rate of seven or more atomic bombs per second.

This past summer was the hottest in human history. Romania hit 22°C in January 2023 and Iran hit 66°C in July 2023. Heat records continue to be shattered, worldwide.

Most ominously, 1,200 ppm is the hypothetical cloud tipping point (the point at which clouds can no longer form naturally). If carbon dioxide and all other greenhouse gases are included in the calculation, we are already at 800 ppm.

The equation is as non-linear as it could possibly be. "Global warming" and "climate change" are inadequate descriptors. What we are facing is an abrupt climate collapse.

What's the evidence that geoengineering has been deployed?

1) According to the World Meteorological Organization, in the last few years, Nature has bequeathed to us an abundance of new cloud "species"—presumably 'discovered' by scientists and/or citizen scientists. Incredible geometric patterns are indeed overhead, but no one seems to know why Nature waited until precisely this moment to launch a radical new math exhibit in our skies.

2) The type of engine used in most modern jet aircraft is incapable of producing condensation, except under very rare conditions, and certainly not in the amount required to form so-called "condensation trails". The shockingly visible neon white trails that linger for hours and then fan out in a filthy haze can only be produced and maintained if there is another element in the equation.

When was the last time you saw vapour from a car's exhaust hang around for hours on end?

Likewise, trails that look like they've been cut with a knife [- - -] put an end to the ridiculous "condensation" claims. These trails can, however, be explained by nozzles turning on and off while emitting aerosols (see The Dimming, 2023).

3) The laws of physics dictate that there should be more rain on a warming planet, but, as it so happens, there is less overall. Again, this is only possible if there is another factor in the equation. We are also increasingly witnessing rain at temperatures far below zero, and frozen material (formerly known as "snow") at temperatures far above zero.

4) Precipitation from every continent has been lab-tested for contaminants. A toxic slurry of synthetic chemicals is showing up in these tests—in quantities that are off the charts—including elements that are rarely if ever found in nature (such as free/unbound aluminum). Crucially, these findings cannot be accounted for by industrial emissions, but several of these elements are the primary constituents of geoengineering patents.

5) Wildfires are raging out of control with unprecedented ferocity, and forestry officials are 'stumped'. Our forests are saturated with incendiary elements that are not normal constituents of forests.

Finally, extraordinary and exhaustive data can be found at geoengineeringwatch.org—the most credible and authoritative source on this subject, bar none, and the major reference for this article.

Freedom is essential on a dying planet and meaningless on a dead one

It is a fallacy that the most demented members of our species are merely seeking profits for the sake of profits, or power and control for the sake of power and control. Even a psychopath has an ounce of self-preservation: nobody takes the kinds of risks that these individuals have taken purely out of lust or greed. They are desperate and they are playing out their End Game. All of the large scale horrors—from technocratic tyrannies to accelerating enslavement to endless war—are rooted in the same source: a dying planet.

Long ago, those who rule the world committed us all to an experiment from which there is no return. The world that we once knew is not coming back. 37 countries and counting are spiralling into chaos and collapse—no food, no fuel, no water—with wealthier nations to follow in short order.

The climate catastrophe (and climate engineering, in particular) is the most dire and immediate threat that we collectively face, short of nuclear cataclysm, and therefore requires a prioritization that is second to none. All other causes will soon be moot if we do not address the unravelling of Earth's life support systems head-on.

The speed and force with which we must respond cannot be overstated.

Death is inevitable; murder is not

Here's what you can do, right now:

- 1) Spread the word. Start spot fires of awareness. Help trigger a shock wave around the world.
- 2) If you work for the Armed Forces, stand down. If you have family or friends in the military (public or private, foreign or domestic), urge them to stand down.
- 3) Expose complicity. Canada is a major sponsor of the climate engineering atrocities.

Last but not least: What are you prepared to give up?

Because something's gotta give.
