

This is my interpretation of events of that have happened in Rawb.tv and Mt Jimmyker's
Discords and associated spaces

This does not reflect the interpretations of others mentioned in this document

- SugarMango

Hello, I am SugarMango; one of the three staff members of Mt Jimmykers at the time when the initial allegations were brought to the management team(Mt Jimmykers) against a member of said community(The Mt Jimmykers Discord server). Based upon the information given to us at the time, along with proof offered to the team; one of the members of staff(Mt Jimmykers) elected to see the proof on behalf of the mod team(Mt Jimmykers). Deemed it within our power to remove(ban) the person in question to protect our community. As directed in the past by the Rawb.tv admin team in past situations, we directed the person to contact Rawb.

This was in part of the fact that said proof was sent to community manager of Rawb.tv Danidipp in mid December, 2023(shortly after the Lords of Minecraft 2 server started). Of which nothing of note was done in terms of action or investigation beyond the initial submission of information, but they did receive an update a few weeks later in January. Saying that the plugin solution suggested to the victim-being unable to see the messages made by the perpetrator-was not in the cards. All the while the perpetrator was allowed to continue to be a part of the server the next few months until recent events.

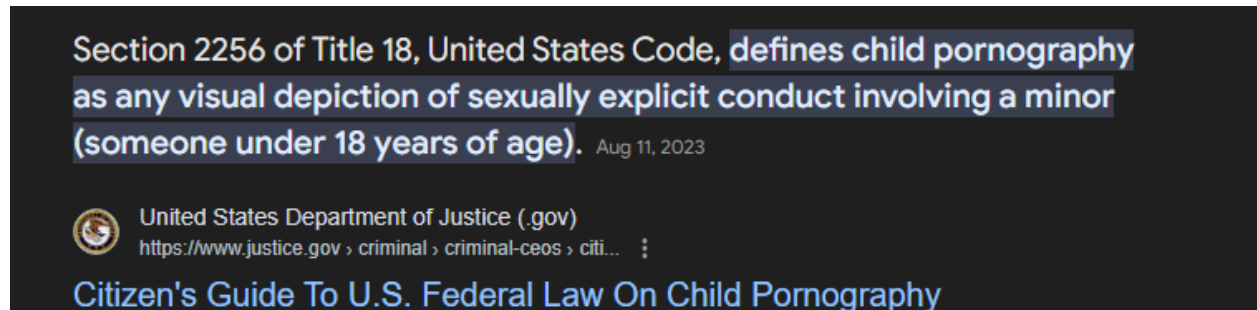

It has also come to the attention of the Mt Jimmykers staff team that the messages that the perpetrator sent to the victim has been deleted between mid-December to before the super-chat vc. Suggesting that the perpetrator knew that what they done was wrong, and was made potentially aware of these messages being shared.

It only seemed when direct action was made on an offshoot-but ultimately non-connected in any official capacity- discord server, is when they were spurred into action to investigate. Which resulted in the very public unhidden super-voice chat with Rawb.tv admin team members: DaniDipp, MsDvil, and Rawb, Mt Jimmykers staff team members: crazygeek516, Samfire7645, and SugarMango, and member of Mt Jimmykers Skye. On Thursday June 13th, 2024.

Most of the topics spoken in regards to the situation I am unable to go in-depth in order to respect the wishes and privacy of the victim. But from what I heard in that vc horrified me and disgusted me.

The rawb.tv admin team's response was horrifying and disgusting as well, with their focus being pinpointed onto one issue when there were multiple issues beyond the one that was put under a microscope. That if they were to be separated on their own, would be grounds to ban them permanently from the community.

- A part of what was horrifying was how both MsDvil and Rawb verbally questioned how elicited pictures of a 17 year old would be considered CP after the members of Mt Jimmykers brought it up to the rawb.tv admin team.
- Here's the answer for that for both the United States and Canada:

Child pornography includes visual representations of explicit sexual activity or a visual representation of which the dominant characteristic is the depiction, for a sexual purpose, of the sexual organs of persons under the age of 18. The definition of child pornography also includes written and audio materials. It is an offence under section 163.1 to, among other things, make, distribute, possess and make available child pornography.

In R.v.Sharpe, ³⁵ the Supreme Court of Canada established a "personal use" exception to the child pornography provisions. This exception permits two youths who engage in lawful sexual activity, to consensually record their own lawful sexual activity as long as that recording is made or possessed for their own "personal use." The material remains child pornography, but the youth can lawfully possess it for their personal use. Once that same material goes beyond their personal use (e.g., one of the youth sends it to a friend) it is captured by the child pornography provisions.

The question of why the rawb.tv admin team didn't investigate the issue in mid-December was asked, their responses can be paraphrased as such:

- The proper channels were not there to handle it
- I was in server development mode for the past 6 months
- We(Danidipp and Rawb) thought up a solution where the affected person would not be able to see the messages made by the perpetrator through a plugin, but ultimately did not go through with it
- It happened too long ago (Lords of Minecraft 1)

Which also proved to us that this issue was also not properly explained between each member of the rawb.tv staff team back in December if at all. As such when earlier in the day before the super-vc conversation; Rawb was spotted in that unhidden channel talking to MsDvil and Momo. Which has been noted that the Rawb.tv in the past has had issues with communicating with one another on issues on the server and in the community. As seen with the recent development of the mod chats in mid April.

After which the super-voice conversation shifted off topic conversational points of the situation to general Dwarves vs. Zombies and Lords of Minecraft 2 complaints and issues. In part by the fact that the Mt Jimmykers members had already heard enough and wanted to exit the conversation.

Some of these topics that were brought up during this was (Again also paraphrased):

- How the Rawb.tv admin team was not interacting with the community enough in both the discord and on Lords of Minecraft 2 |<>|
- The way that promotions were being handled in Dwarves vs. Zombies and complaints regarding that
- Feelings of being left out and not given the opportunity to shine by the Rawb.tv admin team/preferential treatment of a smaller and established group of players.
 - In both Dwarves vs. Zombies and Lords of Minecraft 2
- The handling of erotic roleplay and how it was not specifically discouraged outright like romantic roleplay until around April
- The priorities of the development of the server in general.
- The desire to connect and specifically “bridge the gap between” Mt Jimmykers back with the Rawb.tv community
 - The staff team of Mt Jimmykers Discord server considers them to be separated from the Rawb.tv community Discord; regardless of the amount of people in both servers/communities.(Which not every member of Mt Jimmykers is a part of the Rawb.tv community)
 - The Rawb.tv admin team does not see it that way

After those conversational points, the conversation ended and the Rawb.tv admin team and the Mt Jimmykers staff team went their separate ways.

- It will be noted that due to the fact that the super-voice chat was publicly seen, multiple Mt Jimmykers members were dmed during and after the conversation, intrigued by what was being spoken of.
 - Further conversations with other community members of Mt Jimmykers post the super-voice conversation were brought into private vcs that could not be seen by the rest of the Rawb.tv Discord server.

In response to the conversation with the Rawb.tv admin team, crazygeek516(Owner of the Mt. Jimmykers Discord server) made a post outlining his decision to leave the Rawb.tv community(Note that this post then was edited to protect the victim's wishes) which was why there were two variants posted. Which both can be seen in the #Lords-of-Minecraft text channel on the Rawb.tv discord as of June 16th, 2024.

In the following day of June 14th, 2024; Rawb made the following post in the #Lords-of-minecraft text channel in Rawb.tv:

rawb Yesterday at 2:13 PM

Earlier this week, we suspended a community member pending a serious investigation. During our investigation, we discovered critical information that significantly affected our understanding of the situation. Despite sharing these crucial details with the Mt Jimmykers admin team, led by crazygeek516, he chose to ignore both the initial information and additional details we provided from our investigative efforts. As such, crazygeek516 has now spread a one-sided, incomplete narrative without even checking the math of the screenshots involved. This misinformation urged people to take hasty and misguided actions without a proper understanding of the facts.

crazygeek516's actions are deeply irresponsible and have serious consequences. Inciting a witch hunt and misleading our community about such a grave issue cannot be tolerated. Normally, we do not publicize moderation actions, but the severity of this misinformation and its impact on our community necessitates transparency.

While the initial investigation is still ongoing, crazygeek516 has been banned from our servers and is no longer welcome in our community or projects due to these actions.

When this decision was questioned by a member of the community, rawb shortly followed up with the following response:

rawb Yesterday at 2:31 PM

The investigation is still undergoing, users who are witch hunting community members while we are still in the middle of talking to all parties involved is entirely unacceptable. Specific allegations that have been brought up have been disproven and so we are still investigating the situation. crazygeek did not do an investigation, they began a witch hunt.

In the wake of the above responses, community members of Rawb.tv as well some members of Mt Jimmykers would leave messages announcing their departure of the server, the ending of their bits as well as their roles in businesses on the Lords of Minecraft 2 server, and Dwarves vs. Zombies. Along with other members of the community questioning the stance and post made by Rawb.

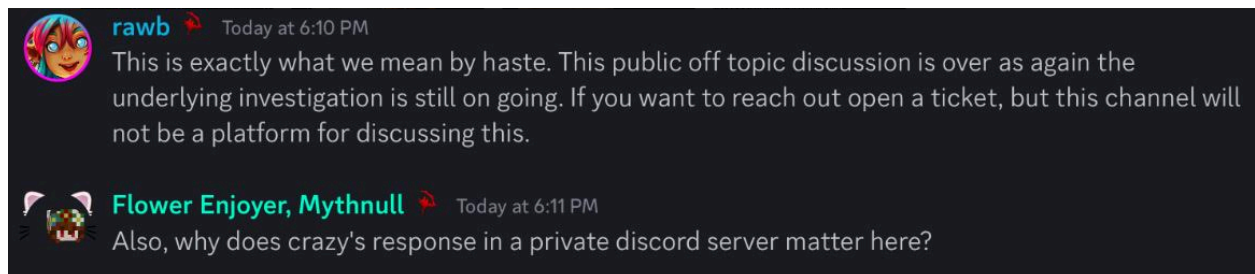

At one point I had posted the edited edition of the post made by crazygeek516 to show what the Rawb.tv admin team considered to be "witch hunting" the perpetrator in the Mt Jimmykers Discord server*, DaniDipp would respond with a previous edited version containing more direct information regarding the perpetrator. I will add that no member of the Rawb.Tv admin team has direct access to Mt Jimmykers in any capacity,

After which Rawb would respond with the following post:

Which was an effective shut down of the conversation in regards to that; any further messages regarding it were swiftly deleted. The following messages were deleted in this wake-Note the screenshots were taken across multiple timezones, explaining the inconsistent timestamps-:

rawb

Today at 6:10 PM

This is exactly what we mean by haste. This public off topic discussion is over as again the underlying investigation is still on going. If you want to reach out open a ticket, but this channel will not be a platform for discussing this.

Silburware, former knight

Today at 6:12 PM

rawb

Today at 6:10 PM

This is exactly what we mean by haste. This public off topic discussion is over as again the underlying investigation is still on going. If you want to reach out open a ticket, but this channel will not be a platform for discussing this.

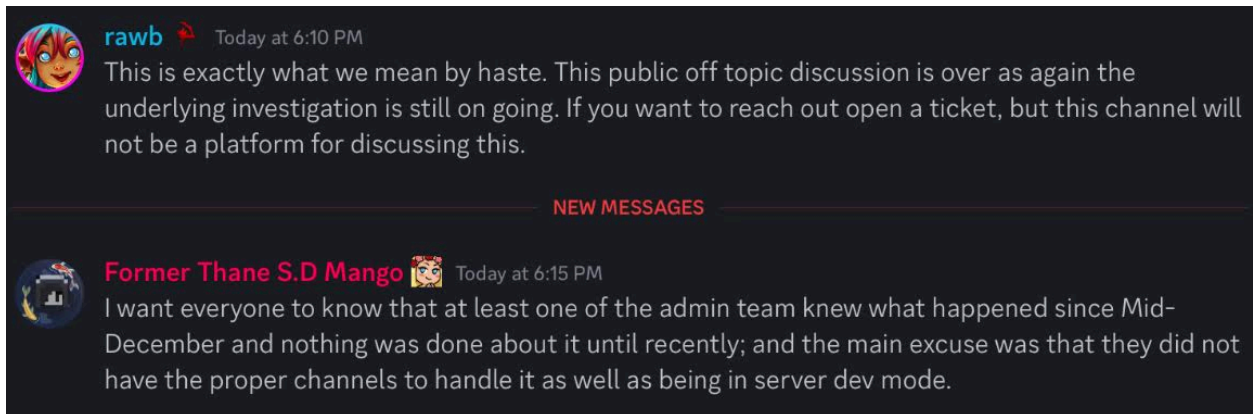

Master Buildä Luckystar

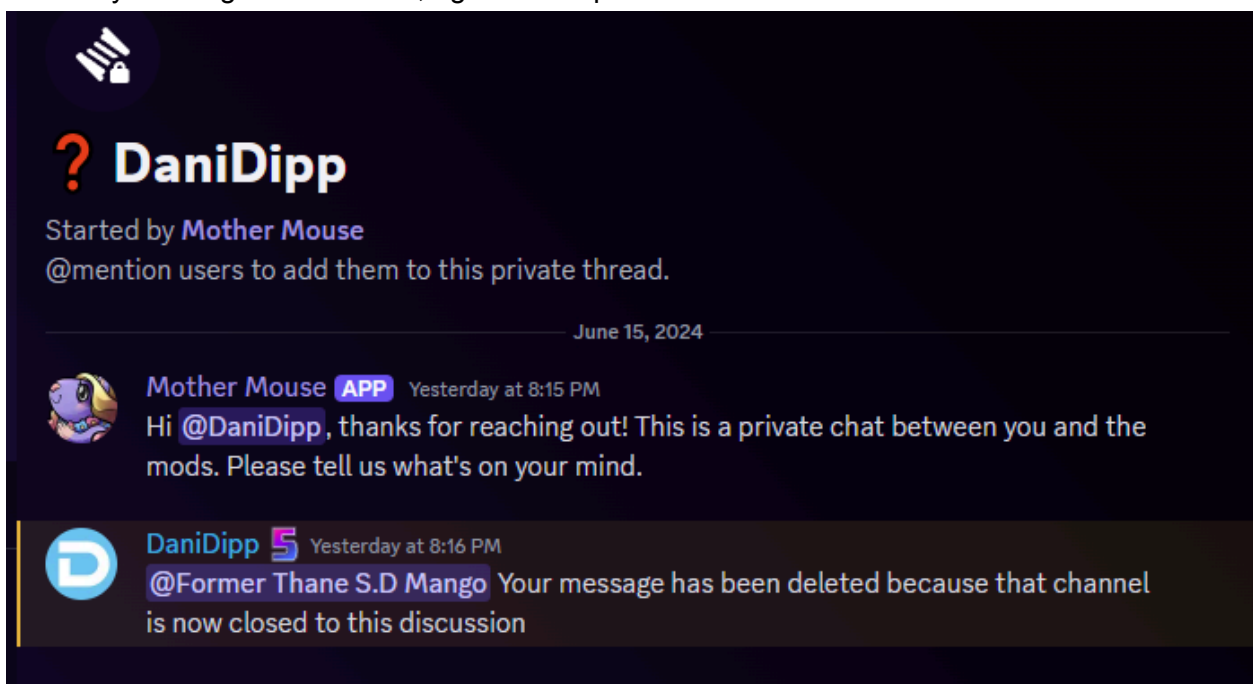

Today at 6:12 PM

i saw what you deleted

When my message was deleted; I got this response from the mod chat:

When at the time of writing this document on June 16th, 2024; this is what the the following messages look like:

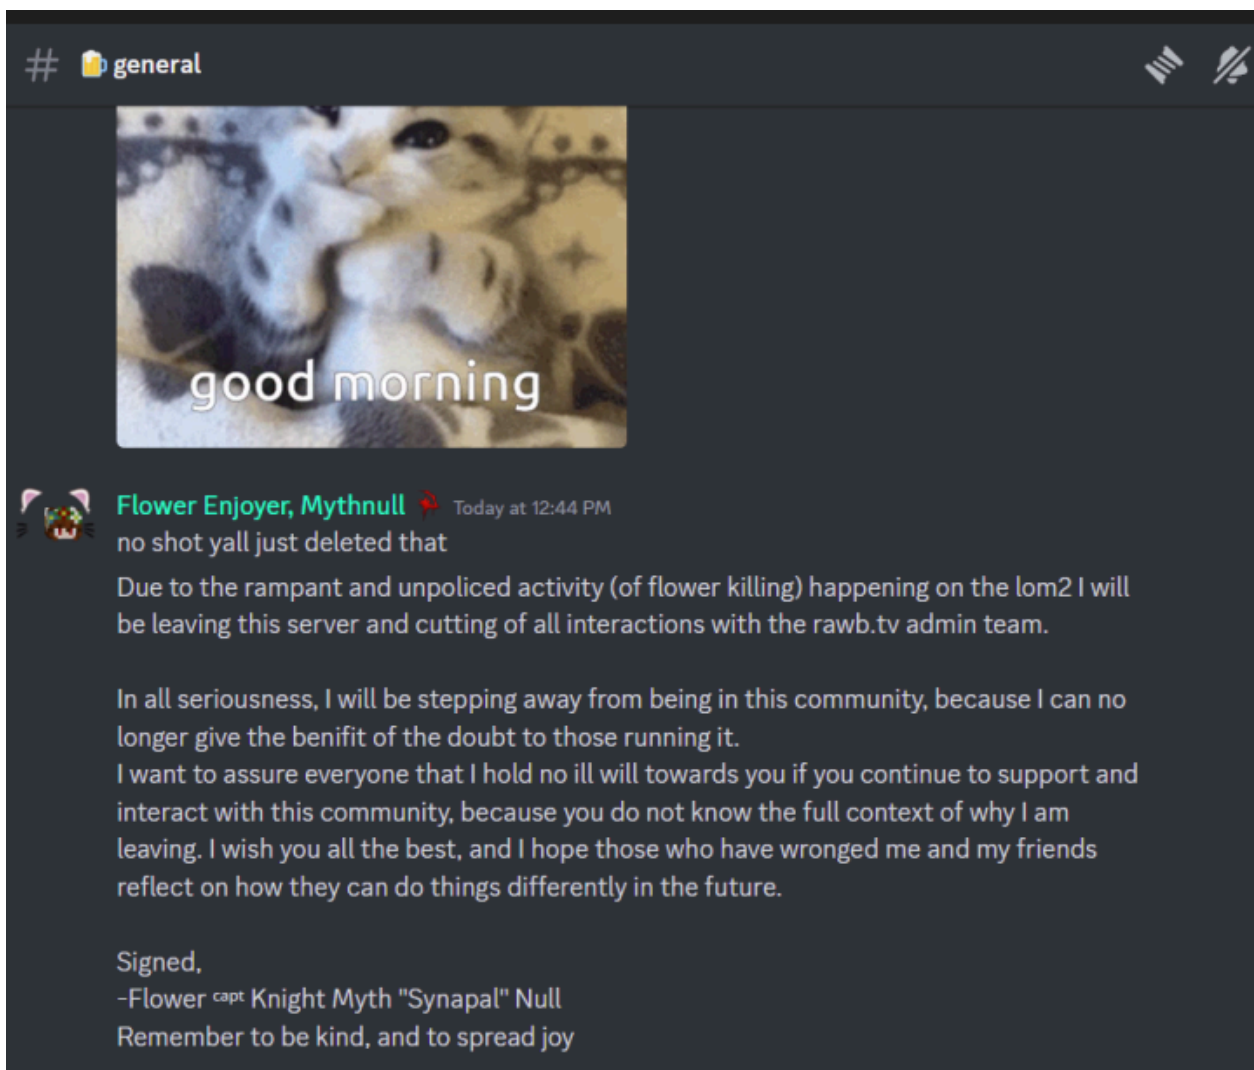

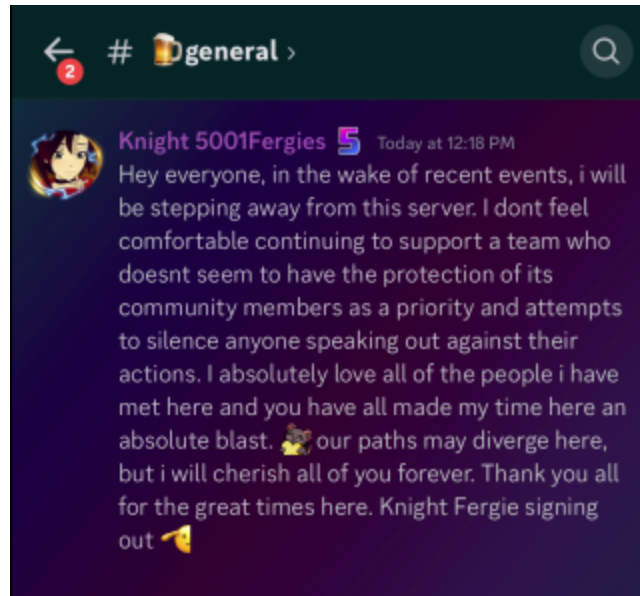

After the above screen shot, the Lords of Minecraft text channel resumed it's posting of LoM2 related topics.

Members of the Rawb.tv community and some members of Mt Jimmykers would go onto Lords of Minecraft and do some of the following:

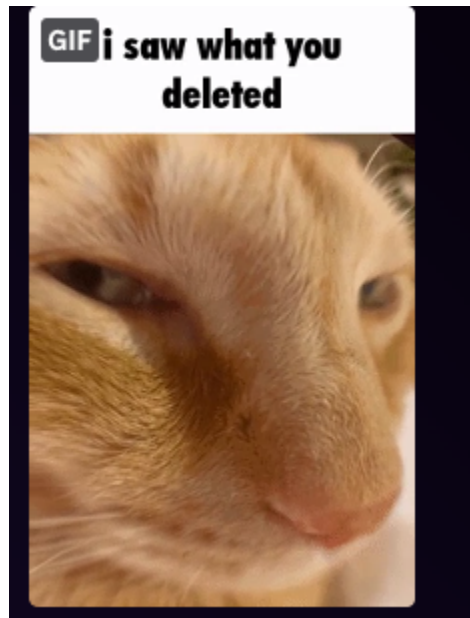

- Abandon plots
- Destroy their own builds
 - Plots were manually reset to baseline
- Board up their buildings/businesses
 - Unboarded by the Rawb.tv admin team ie: Maid Cafe

A few hours following the above, it will be noted that Rawb was in the Lords-ooc voice chat for a few hours, talking about how the royal program/voice chat for the server is being moved up and releasing soon. As well as rumors of royal applications were opening soon. He was also spotted in Lords of Minecraft while speaking in said voice chat. |<>|

On the following day of June 16th, 2024 more posts announcing the departure of Rawb.tv community members were made in the Rawb.tv #general chat. Which were then promptly deleted within minutes or seconds of being posted. The following screenshots were the messages deleted by the Rawb.tv Admin team-once again different timestamps due to screenshots been taken across different timezones:

Rawb.tv and Mt Jimmykers member Luckystar would also post the following gif twice after that but would also have their messages deleted:

Of which people who have had their messages deleted would also be contacted through the server mod chat by Rawb.tv Admins Danidipp and Rawb. Screenshots provided by Luckystar with his permission of his mod chat:

DaniDipp Today at 18:56
Hi @Master Buildä Luckystar, if you would like to talk to us, please do it here

Master Buildä Luckystar Today at 19:00
Just don't really agree with you censoring poeple, I get deleting a message if it names the one who shall not be named or if its telling other poeple to also leave, but all poeple are doing are saying that their leaving the community and why that is.

rawb Today at 19:01
This is an ongoing situation I. Using the discors to past judgement in general chat is not acceptable. People are not just saying they are leaving, they sre bringing up the situation in their messages. If people want to inform others of their departure they may dm or use other platforms. Watching people i. tandum post messages in solidarity is not helping anyone. apologies for typos. I am not at my desk atm Yestaurday you were adamant crazy did not say the things were posted and escalated the situation Luckystar. If you are going to only act in bad faith here, then please step away.

I hope my final report on this can rebuild trust, but escalating the situation is helping no one.

Master Buildä Luckystar Today at 19:09
While I understand that this is an ongoing" investigation" deleting people's messages does not look to good on the staff teams part, while yes I get that you are trying to stop confusion from spreading censorship is not the way to do it.
And that is also why I think poeple are stepping away, not because of what  did. BUT the way the staff team handeld *s situation and is also handling the current situation

rawb Today at 19:12
That is your opinion and while I understand it, I do not agree. If they want to step away thats one thing but too many users are acting on emotion. It was important to make the statement against crazygeek given that he has been misinformed and is misinforming others. (edited) multiple users all posting in solidarity in general creates another day of confusion snd dms from parties not involved.

Master Buildä Luckystar Today at 19:49
People aren't just "acting on emotion" they are also looking at the info given to them, not just by crazy but also other memebers of the community. While yes, there COULD be the chance that they where misinformed but! I and others find that very hard to believe given the situation that it is about. And if they are misinformed surely you would have the info to prove that they where misinformed.

So far I have only seen info come from one side while the other side just denies that info with no arguments and is only trying to censor it (edited)

In the wake of this string of silencing and deletion of posts, the Rawb.tv discord became almost static in most of the channels. With people almost afraid of triggering the tripwire and being silenced from speaking in any and all channels.

During this time period, the rawb.tv admin team was in talks with parties regarding the situation. But the victim as of Wednesday, June 19th has not been contacted by the team for further investigation. But other members of the community have also been contracted for their sides of the situation from all angles. As well as one of the admin team members not being aware of the full scope of the situation until Tuesday, June 18th by a member outside of the admin team.

On Wednesday, June 19th, 2024, rawb.tv admin Ms Dvil would release the following message to the community in the new announcement channel:

(The one who “mishandled the situation” in this case would be Danidipp)
Linking to the new wiki page with defined rules including:

Handling Moderation Matters

Do not share current or ongoing moderation tickets. Leave such matters to the moderation team.

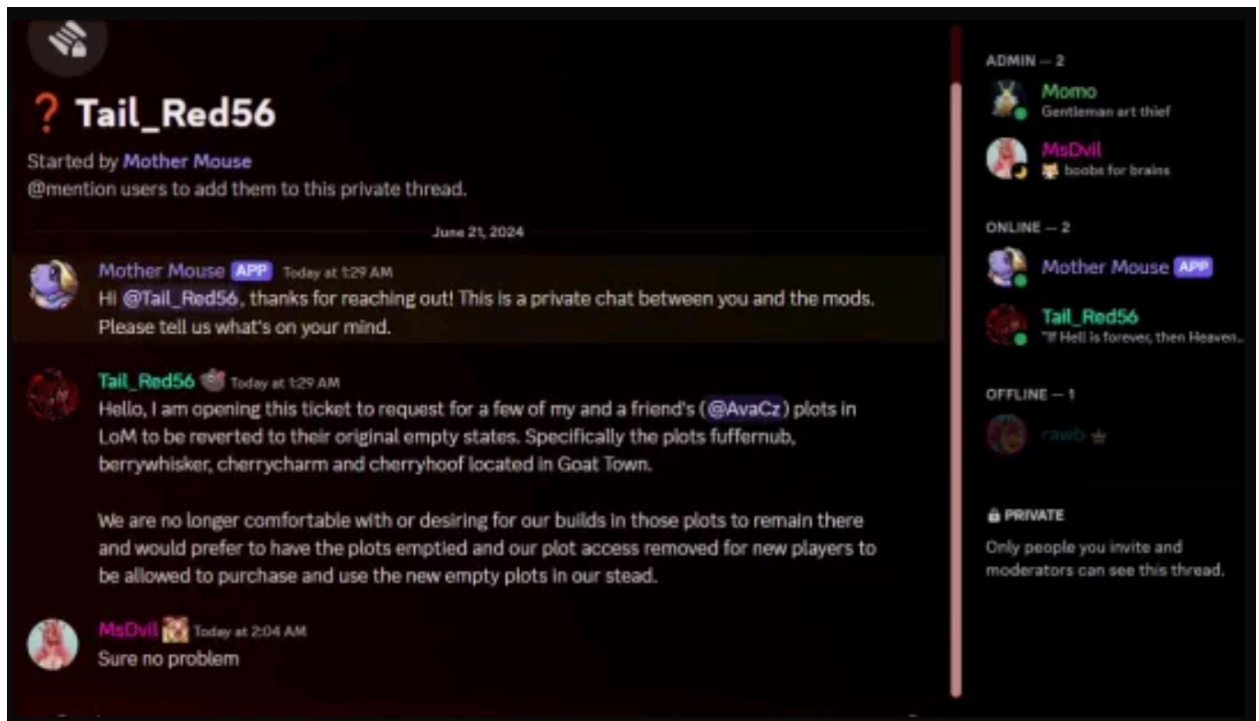

Communication with Other Community Leaders

If you manage or moderate a community with 15 or more members overlapping with the rawb.tv community, we ask that you notify us to facilitate transparent discussions about moderation and potential issues.

Which would be referring to the Mt Jimmykers discord in this case and them wanting to prevent what happened from happening again.

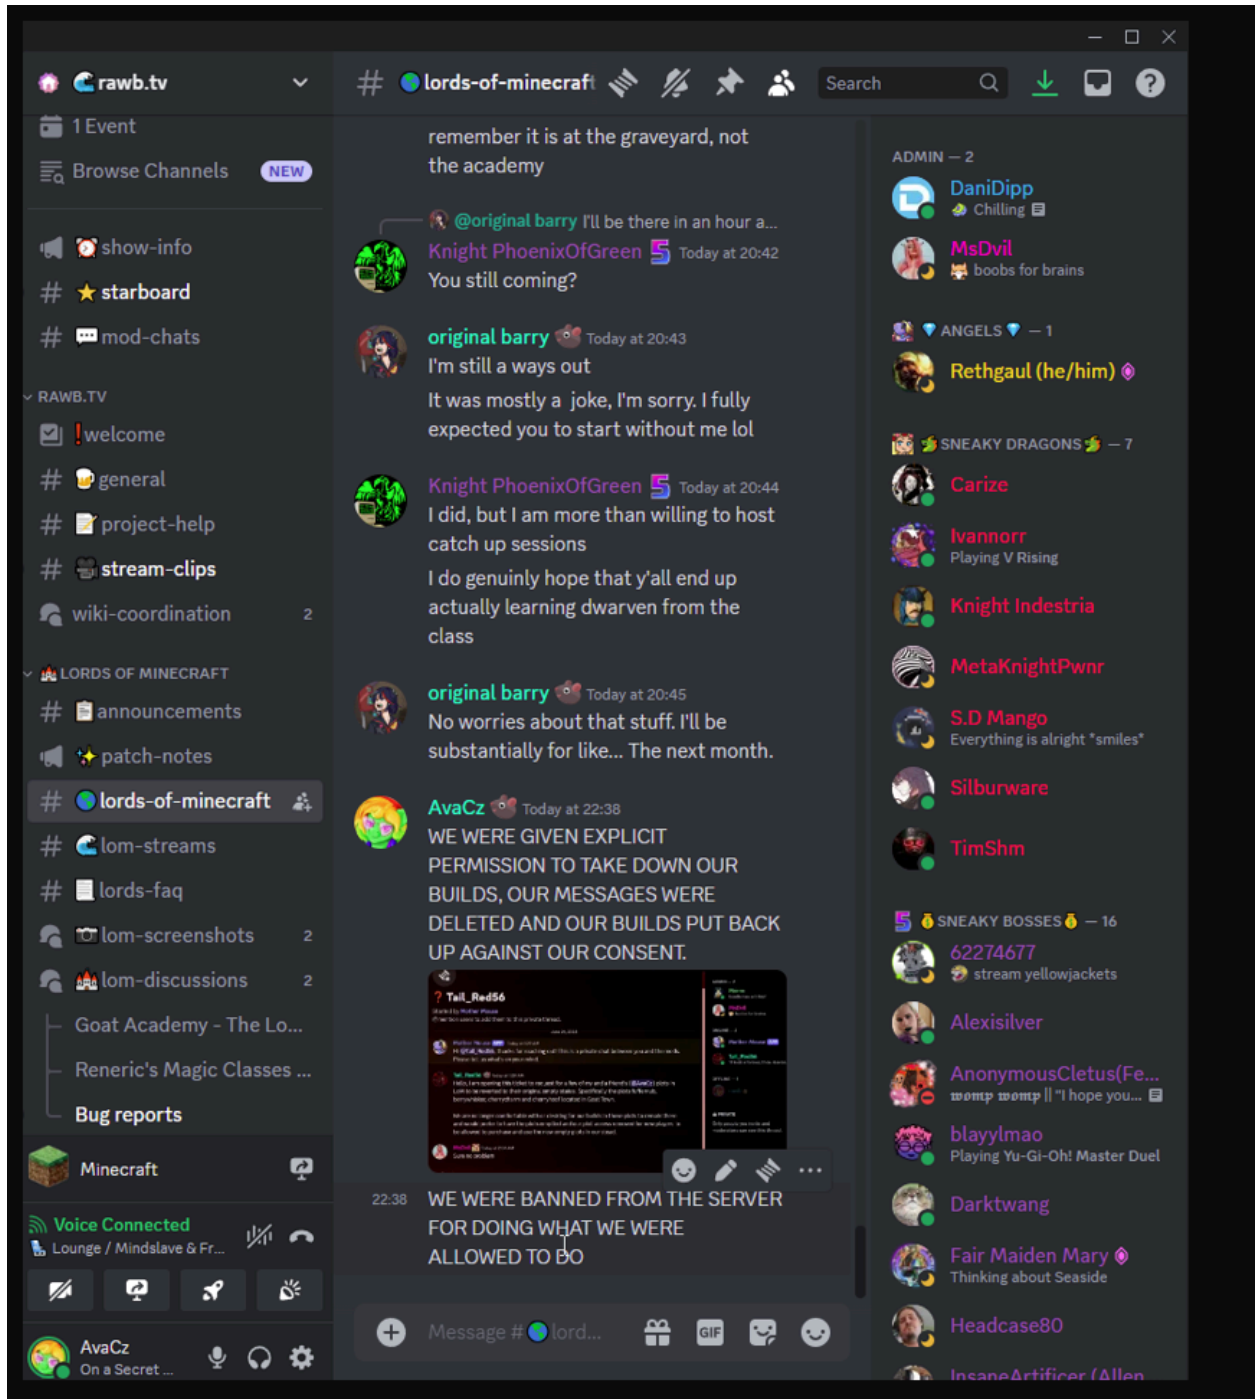

As of Wednesday, June 19th; rawb hasn't apologized to the victim after what has been done after June 13th.

On June 21st, the builders and founders of Goat Academy and the associated school and magical girl role play (Ava_Cz, Tail_Red, and AerisGreenwich) decided that they no longer wished to have their builds on the server. As such, Tail_Red56 opened up a mod chat with the Rawb.tv admin team to request that the plots would be reverted to their blank slate. The following image is how that conversation played out:

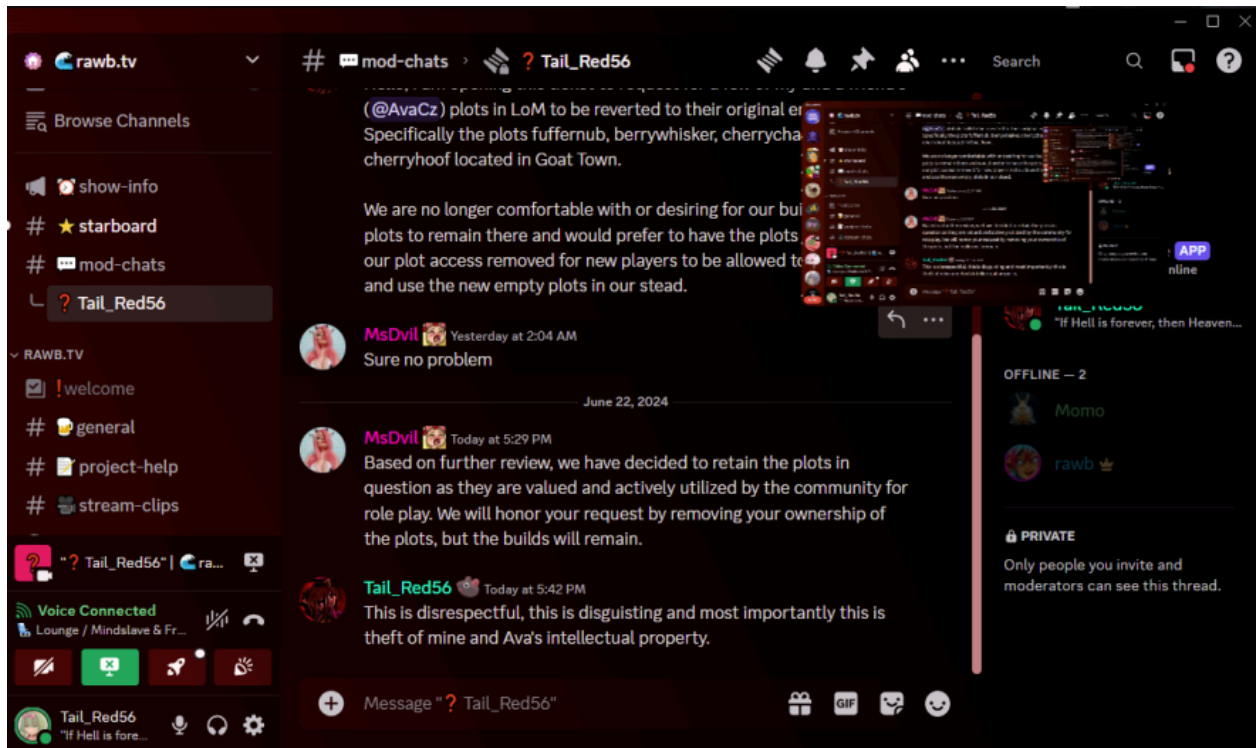

With Ms.Dvil giving them approval to do such a thing. A note would be that the plots were not reverted by any admin for a length of time, as such the three came to the conclusion that they had to tear down the Goat Academy associated plots: Fluffernub, Berrywhisker, Cherrycharm, and Cherryhoof-by their own hands. Which they began to do so. Unfortunately it turned out to be another case of the rawb.tv admin team not communicating amongst one another as shortly into their deconstruction of their plots, all three members were ip banned from

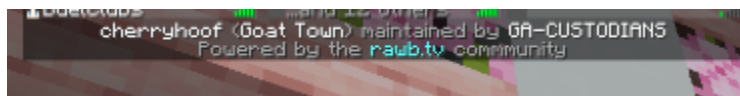

Lords of Minecraft 2. As well as their plots being reverted to their pristine conditions, as it turned out Rawb did not want that to happen. Ava_CZ attempted to bring to light this issue in the #lords of minecraft discord text channel. But as all past messages that have been posted regarding anything negative, were sniped and their tongues cut from all channels to snuff out their messages. Such can be seen in the following screenshot:

In response to the above, Ms.Dvil returned to Tail_Red56's mod chat of why they were banned from the server in regards to the Goat Academy plots and the future of said plots:

As such, the admin team removed their access to the plots while the builds remained. Even as far as going into the plot system to code up a new node to their plot plugin. Where an admin entity could take ownership of a plot in order to prevent someone on the server from attempting to carry out the wishes of their original owners of wanting their builds to be removed from the server. Where in lieu of the plot being “owned by: blank” as all other plots are. The new node would have it that it would be “maintained” as seen in the following image:

The “GA-Custodians” not actually being a player but a placeholder entity to keep the plots from the playerbase. Ultimately resulting in those four plots effectively being locked in their current state unless the admin team wishes to release them from their grasp.

In the end, the Rawb.tv admin team did not officially give any of the Goat Academy builders the reason why they were banned from the server.

Unfortunately these ip bans would also affect another member in the community; Skye. As she was AerisGreenwich's IRL roommate. Meaning that she would also have her accounts be banned from joining Lords of Minecraft 2. As anyone else in this situation would, she opened up a mod ticket with the Rawb.tv admin to amend this issue. This is what happened in that chat as well as the ban message provided when connecting to the server(provided by Skye):

Failed to connect to the server

Kicked whilst connecting to lords: Your IP address is banned from this server.
Reason: Violated server rules

Back to Server List

This thread has been closed and locked. Only moderators can reopen it.

skye 🌙💚

Started by Mother Mouse

@mention users to add them to this private thread.

June 22, 2024

Mother Mouse APP 06/22/2024 11:19 PM

Hi @skye 🌙💚, thanks for reaching out! This is a private chat between you and the mods. Please tell us what's on your mind.

skye 🌙💚 06/22/2024 11:21 PM

hi! Aeris and I live together. She was banned from the server and so was our IP in general?

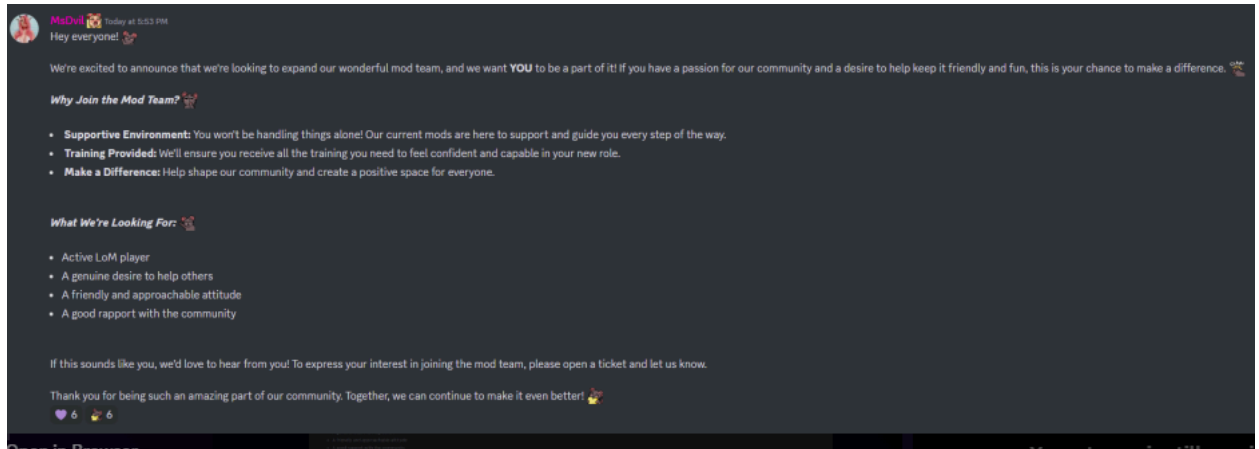

June 23, 2024

skye 🌙💚 06/23/2024 6:04 PM

hi again! wanted to check on this?

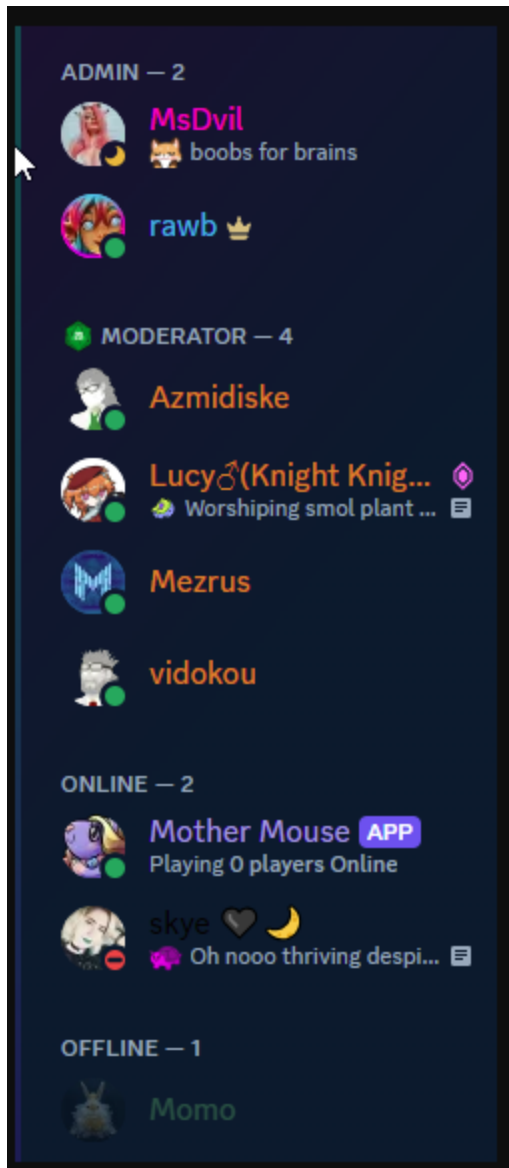

On June 23rd, they opened up applications to be a trial mod on the server. 6 Months after the start of the server.

The following members of rawb.tv were prompted to Trial Mod on Rawb.tv two to three days later:

- Azmidiske
- Lucy
- Mezrus
- Vidokou

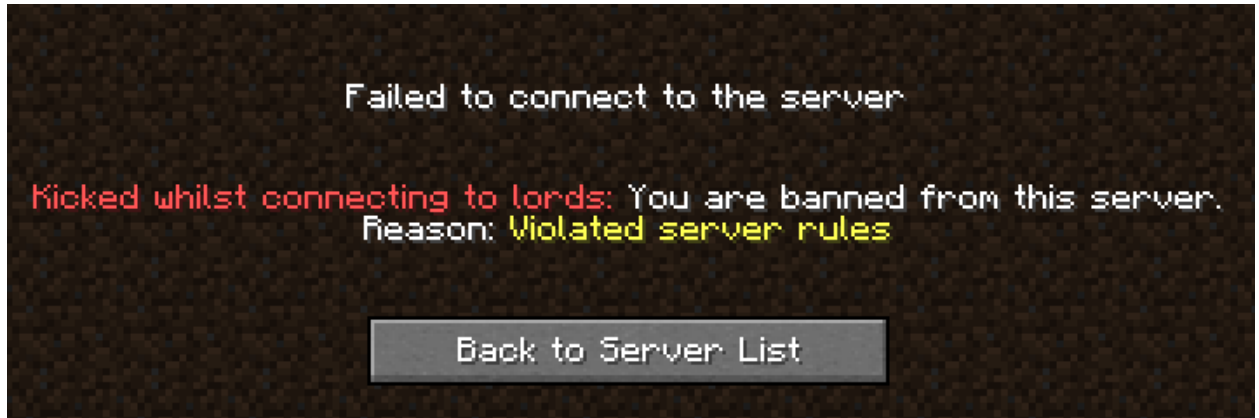

They do have the ability to read mod chats as seen here:

So if you do wish to use the mod chat feature, do expect those community members to also see anything that you post in there. But then again, there have been cases where messages sent by members of the rawb.tv admin team are tinged with chatgpt.

On June 29th, the magic update finally dropped. With this update the “Skywalker Potion”’s special ability to launch people high in the air was removed from said potions. Which was Skye’s special consumable item on the server.

On Wednesday of July 4th, Moshen, Samfire, and I(SugarMango) attempted to log on into Lords of Minecraft 2 after returning from their trip from Rotterdam Twitchcon. All three(including alts) were ip banned from the server between June 14th to July 4th. With once again, no official reason of being banned beyond the following:

With these bannings, all members who brought up the negligence of the rawb.tv admin in regards to handling the victim's case have all been banned and punished. Once again no official reason has been given to the three banned members in regards to why they were banned. Especially with Moshen, who wasn't even a part of the group who were in the June 14th super-voice chat.

On July 4th, Skye would send the following document/letter into mod chat. It has been edited to protect the victim as well as put behind a request to access due to what is in the document:

 Rawb Edited Version

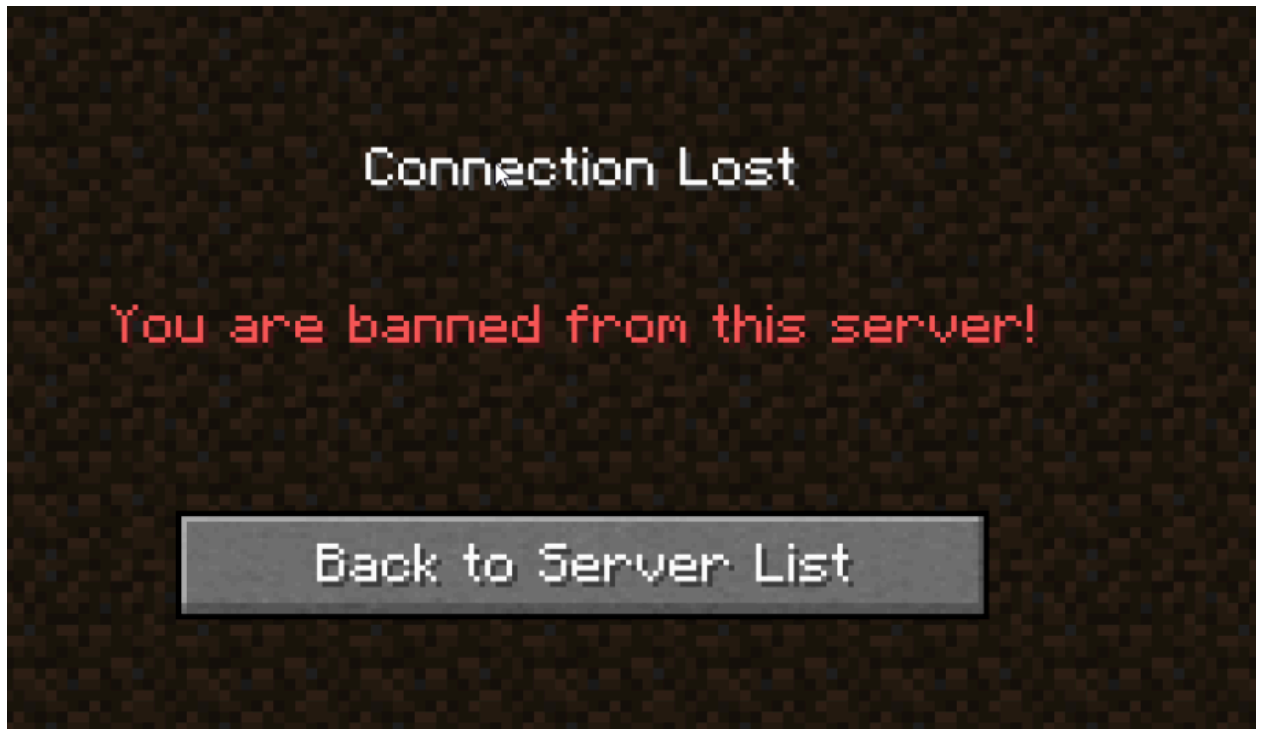

On July 5th, Skye checked if they were still banned from the server and the ip ban was removed at some point between the above mod chat and now. Without any indication of action being made to remedy that.

Also Scoot Oreouef got banned from Lords of Minecraft 2 for removing plots that she owned/was a part of even when Rawb himself was helping/rp in regards to she cleaning up his Slum plot as seen in this image:

Three of her plots were reverted to their complete state and given to random people that she did not know. She was banned in the middle of helping another scoot remove their build, with no warning or explanation.

July 6th, Skye has once again been banned from Lords of Minecraft 2:

Sokon got banned from the rawb.tv discord server as well.

Ultimately in my perspective of the Rawb.tv admin team's handling of the server has been in a list of descriptors: disgusting, shocking, appalling, bewildering, disappointing, and expected.

This is not Rawb's first Minecraft server, this is not Rawb's first community. The actions above would be expected by someone's first rodeo of being the herald of a community inexperienced with handling people and issues. Who hasn't really dealt with a lash back by the community they're managing. But this is Rawb, who has 15 to 16 years of internet content creation underneath his belt.

Who created Dwarves vs. Zombies, who created and maintained Lords of Minecraft 1, who has been a part of GTA 5 RP communities, created and developed SneakyRP(Minecraft RP server), and Lords of Minecraft 2. What has happened can not be excused with claiming inexperience of properly handling issues, running a Minecraft server, running a Discord community, or not even having the proper channels to handle it.

When one preaches about creating a safe community who respects one another, he has failed at creating one. The Lords of Minecraft 2 server launched with no official way of communicating to the Rawb.tv admin team as a whole if issues were to arise in any regards to Lords of Minecraft 2. The "official" way to speak if there was an issue on the server would be picking which admin team member (DaniDipp, Momo, MsDvil, and Rawb) you'd want to present it to and hope that it would be communicated and resolved by the admin member you brought it to. Because there was no moderation team, the development team functioned as the moderation team. Which no further admins or mods have been added to the server to effectively moderate the on goings of the server. So there would be swaths of time where there was no active moderator on the server that you could contact within game. People have brought this to the admin team and they took note of it. Nothing was done to add more members of staff..

The server opened to having no official rule list to follow, beyond the verbal word of Rawb in streams.

So one case in the early days of the server (December/January) where some player who has bad blood against Rawb could log into the server and just start killing people. Specifically afk players who were fishing to gain money while either asleep or at work. These killers could run rampant for over 30 plus minutes without moderation stepping in because no one was on the server to stop them. Resulting in the players having to take matters in their own hands and continuously slaughter the killer till a staff member can get on after others are screaming in the rawb.tv discord server for an admin to get on. It only stopped when it happened enough times where it was coded for afk players being invulnerable as well as removing the ability for new players to punch people.

Another major case that was left to brew and resulted in rifts in the LoM2 community was the gray area of erotic roleplay on the server. Which again, no proper channels were made at this point to process complaints or issues of the playerbase beyond the admin team's personal direct messages. Hoping that you would get a response or action taken. So it was left to fester until an incident happened on Lords of Minecraft 2 between two groups on the server clashing against one another in regards to erotic roleplay. Where some of the Mt Jimmykers members attempted to handle the issue in lieu of the Rawb.tv admin team under the impression that community members were to solve such matters between ourselves. But ultimately failed at properly handling the situation, resulting in leaving festering feelings between both parties that lasted for months until it boiled over and the issue was brought to the Rawb.tv Admin team. Resulting in the first unhidden super-voice call between members of the community and the Rawb.tv admin team. In April, 2024.

Of note, the Rawb.tv team was aware that there was at least one active minor during the lifespan of Lords of Minecraft 2.

Only then would the Rawb.tv admin team be spurred to create the current day version of the mod chats in the Rawb.tv discord server, four months into the lifespan of the server. Because in Rawb's mind, the idea of there being drama through text-based rp on his server was infeasible. What was on his mind was cooking magic and other concepts for rp tools to use on the server. Of said tools; would be week after week, month after month of delays again and again.

Four months, with no proper tools or channels to communicate with the admin team beyond one at a time. No ticket system either. At this point in time of June 16th, 2024; there is no in-game ticket system or reporting system.

Which plays into the fact that there was hesitance to even communicate with the Rawb.tv admin team for a variety of reasons. Some of which could be personal, some of which were baked in the more social aspects of the server. Because there was always the looming promise of royal/vc that Rawb kept dangling over the community for months on end. With only limited spots to be given out with no idea when the next batch would be released. Putting pressure on people to essentially mask their feelings and issues in hopes that it would not reflect badly on themselves or others. Until it reaches a breaking point after festering for so long, and is brought into the personal direct messages. Or simply because nothing would change, even when it was brought up to one of the members of the admin team.

- Because it wasn't a well kept secret that the Rawb.tv team had issues communicating with one another. To the point where there's been instances where one of the admin team members says one thing, and then another does something completely different. Or Rawb gets involved and has the final say and the original admin contacted can only respect Rawb's final decision.

Even if they were assuring whomever came to them that this wouldn't affect placement and priority in the royal program. Where in one case, in regards to the first unhidden super-voice call, Rawb told them that their chances of getting royal were decreased. Creating an environment where it was better to keep silent and carry on with it all to not cause strife in the community. Regardless if it was affecting you or not.

Based upon all of that you'd think that this would be the first public server that Rawb has hosted based upon the prior systems have not been put in place, but Lords of Minecraft 1 invalidates that point. Because once again those systems were never in place on that server as well, if not even at a worse state than LoM2. Because at the very least with the current server, you know who you could contact if you were put in an uncomfortable position or your safety was in jeopardy. Lords of Minecraft 1 did not have anything. Due to there being no central Discord server and instead mostly thriving in a cluster Reddit subcommunities during the peak of Lords of Minecraft 1. Again, no reporting systems were in place nor was there a clearly outlined group of people who one could contact to speak of their issues. The best that the server could offer in terms of a defined "moderation team" would be the content creator lords/Buffalo Wizards. Here, erotic roleplay and romantic roleplay was not explicitly banned outright on the server. Unfortunately, the typical age demographic for Lords of Minecraft would fall more in the teenager bracket than the modern edition of LoM.

- As someone-as a minor at the time- who played on Lords of Minecraft 1 when it was both on PlayMindCrack and when it was on it's own dedicated server; I would not be able to even point to where one would report an issue they would have nor would I be aware of who to contact either.

Nonetheless; it created an environment where children and teenagers would be unmoderated and unprotected in a public Minecraft server, and therefore a honey pot for unsavory players to exploit. Unfortunately, they were not protected as they should have been.

Only now in the wake of the ongoing situation have victims been able to gather the courage to speak of their experiences from Lords of Minecraft 1.

Not only that, Rawb seems to specifically give special attention to female community members in both Dwarves vs. Zombies and Lords of Minecraft. Boosting about giving female players high ranks in Dwarves vs. Zombies; because in his mind, female voices are overpowered and need to be uplifted in roleplay spaces. This view has also been verbally spoken to in discussions with community members in private chats.

My name has been mentioned in one of these message exchanges between Rawb and a community member.

Nonetheless, issues would continue to persist until the at the time situation of June 14-16th, 2024 has taken place. Where the Rawb.tv admin team has shown how they think of us and people critical of how they are handling the server. By silencing, pandering, and damage controlling to the people unaware of the reasoning behind this all.

To me, this shows that they only care if you are relevant enough and well respected enough in the community to be unable to be publicly punished until enough other big names are aware of the issue. Or if the misconduct took place in the current era of content creation and could put his livelihood and reputation at risk again. Until then, they'll be more than glad to keep it under the rug in the pursuit to create their own perfected sandbox with perfected miniatures that they cultivated through their methods.

Which does not ensure the overall protections of the community they pledge to protect and keep safe.

Because ultimately;

Your silence is their peace

Or until they get tired or fed up and restart anew with a new project to peddle to the community. Since he has a history of burying the past and burning old bridges to effectively restart with a new group of people. Because it's always been content over people, never people over content. No matter the amount of times he spouts that line.

If you don't like AI generated art as well, the Lords of Minecraft 2 server is slathered in generated art. As seen with the following messages:

rawb 04/02/2024 9:43 PM

as someone who has paid artists and animators their whole life, AI art is a god send

rawb 04/02/2024 9:51 PM

if AI art didn't exist, it's not like a real artist would of done these things for the project, we wouldn't of done it

DaniDipp 04/02/2024 9:53 PM

MsD actually put so much work into those icons, masking, picking and choosing different bits, compositing, color grading, etc

rawb 04/02/2024 10:03 PM

For me all art is for the EXPERIANCE it creates in it's creation and it's release, nothing else idc about the quality or time you put in remember those old minecraft posts where people would be like heres my castle
LEGIT made
everytime i would laugh
like who cares if you did it in creative mode

rawb 04/02/2024 10:08 PM

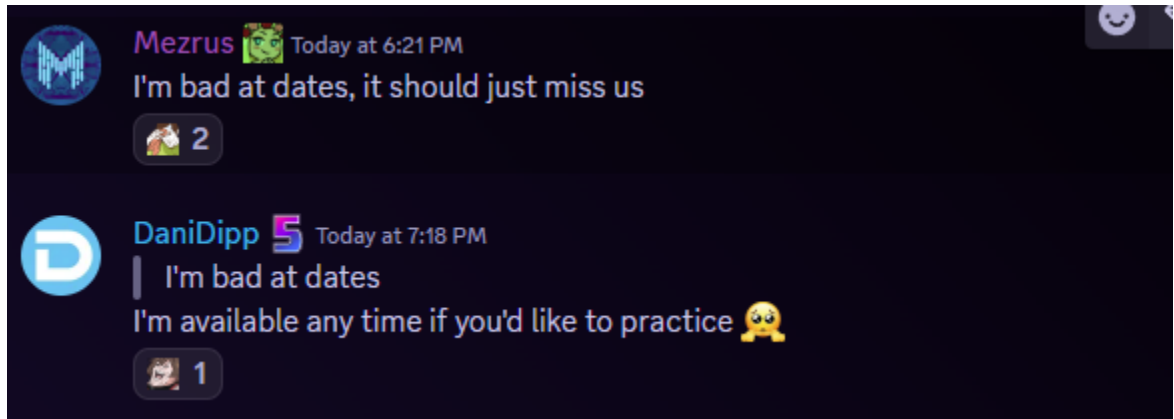

yeah speed is the greatest meme

Update; June 21st, 2024

It only seems when controversial events happen to either the rawb.tv server or to the Rawb.tv admin team is when they're spurred into action to develop anything of note. To pretend that everything is fine and that progress is being made. When it's clearly damage control when they see the writing that a sizable portion of their active community has turned away from his content or at the very least financially supporting him. Cobbling together promised features to quell the remaining populace and assure them that everything will be fine. All the while the guy who fumbled the ball akin to Activision-Blizzard's HR department gets to stay a part of the mod team because he handles the server side of things as well as maintains mother mouse. Who also has not apologized to the victim that he neglected for months on end after pretty much ghosting them because no technical solutions can be made at that time.

The fact that Danidipp continues to make comments like this:

After what he's done is almost sickening to me.

But it's fine now because there's finally after six months of having no true support system in place or codified rules to the second edition of a public Minecraft server, there's finally a system in place. I guess the team is finally getting out of their dev mode to actually protect the community in an actual capacity. Just only takes someone making a ruckus to make that into a reality, and someone getting hurt.

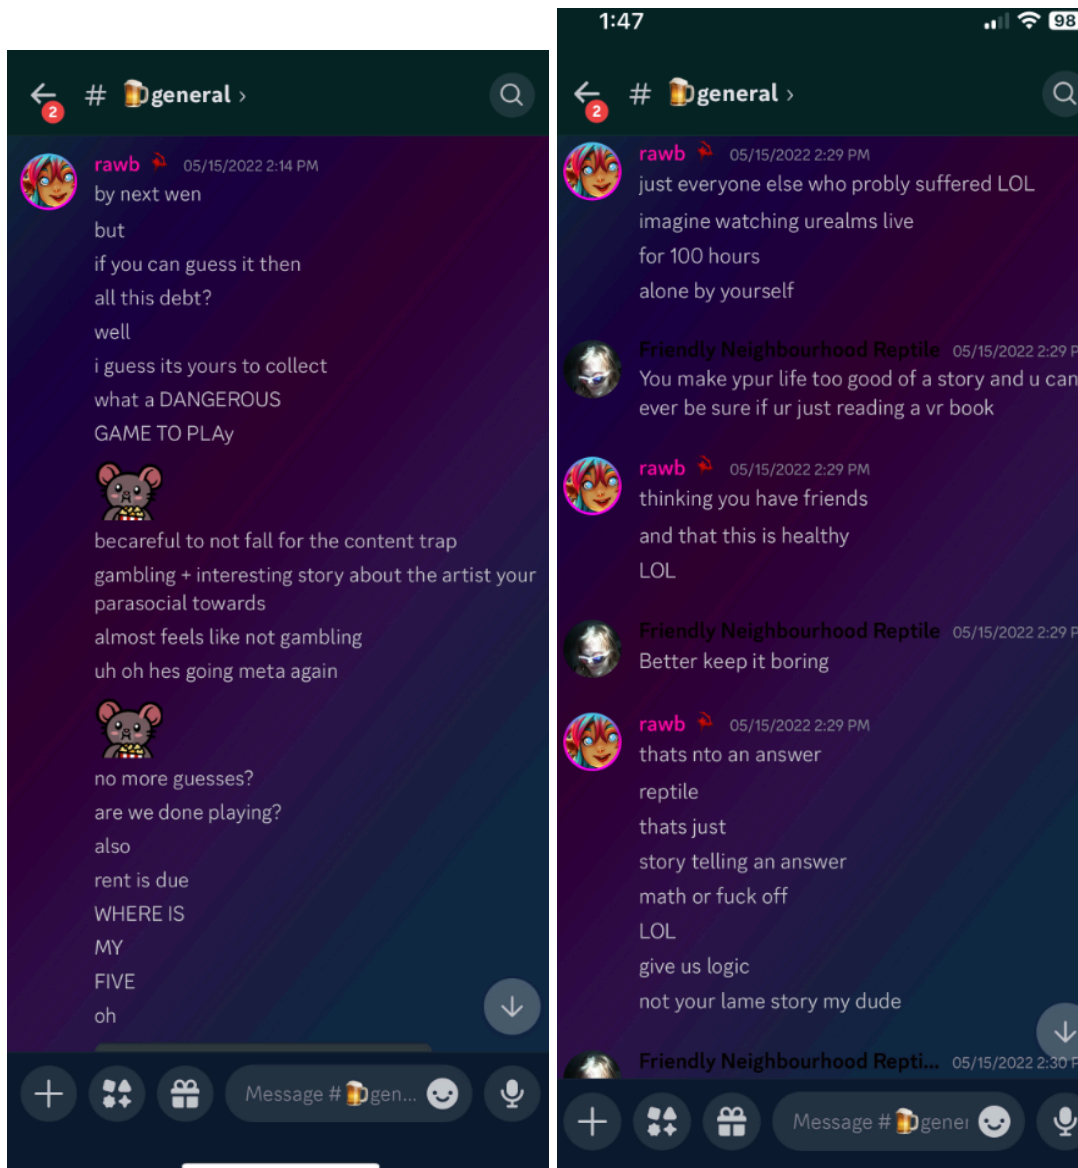

July 5th Update;

I've finally been able to update the document to the current timestamp of today. With what has happened since the last update, it's only been a continuous downward spiral on behalf of the rawb admin team. Because at the end of the day, rawb desires that the community has respect for one another. But what does that matter to him? When he does not clearly respect the wishes of the community members ask of him? Of respecting their desires to remove their builds from the server, or to even entertain their mod chats which are there in order to actually foster communication between the mod team and the community member? It's almost like it's just the same as December and January where one's concerns and plights can just rot in their dms unsolved. But at the very least now you can see that they blatantly don't care, or they would just throw some chatgpt generated fluff at you to settle you down.

Because in regards to the Goat Town Academy, other buildings have been removed such as the Scoots' builds have been removed without much plights from Rawb and the admin team. Even the first edition of the magic school was replaced when the original builder of it requested that it were to be removed from the server, which they were compliant to their request to do so. Yet the Goat Town Academy builders can only suffer and watch as the admin team denies them of their request and continues to use their builds without their consent.

It is notable that unless Rawb says something, do not trust the judgment calls of MsDvil or Momo. Because at the end of the day, it is Rawb's circus and you are merely a cast member that can be discarded the moment your loyalty to him falters. Banned without recourse or warning, stripped of your tongue if you speak out against his actions.

Also of note that any of the announcement posts/apologies have been made by MsDvil and not Rawb himself.

* - If the Rawb.Tv admin team deletes this message, I will be adding the screenshot of the message to the document

 - If the Rawb.tv admin team deletes this message, I will be adding the screenshot of the message to the document

|<>| - Refers to this point

